Low-Interest Loans for Small Businesses Impacted by Chetco Bar Fire

The Federal Small Business Administration (SBA) has an Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) program that may be able to provide “working capital” loans to small businesses negatively economically impacted by the Chetco Bar Fire.

However, for such funds to be made available, the State of Oregon must document need and interest from businesses. If your business was impacted by the fire and you may be interested in seeking an EIDL loan, please complete the worksheet on the reverse of this paper, scan and email it to: alex.campbell@oregon.gov by October 31 at the latest.

The impact start date (goes in the “From:” box on the Worksheets) needs to be consistent on all Worksheets submitted for the Chetco Bar Fire. For Curry County that date is Aug 18, 2017.

If you have questions about this program or to request an electronic version of the worksheet, contact:

EIDL Summary

Eligible loan recipients

- Small Business
- Small agricultural cooperative
- Most private nonprofit organizations

Loan Amounts and Use

Substantial economic injury means the business is unable to meet its obligations and to pay its ordinary and necessary operating expenses. EIDLs provide the necessary working capital to help small businesses survive until normal operations resume after a disaster.

The SBA can provide up to $2 million to help meet financial obligations and operating expenses that could have been met had the disaster not occurred. Your loan amount will be based on your actual economic injury and your company's financial needs, regardless of whether the business suffered any property damage.

Eligibility and Terms

The interest rate on EIDLs will not exceed 4 percent per year. The term of these loans will not exceed 30 years. The repayment term will be determined by your ability to repay the loan.

EIDL assistance is available only to small businesses when SBA determines they are unable to obtain credit elsewhere.
